Reading Well for Children – booklist

For more details of the books ask in the library to see a copy of the list or access it online through the Libraries West website

Reading Well for children supports the mental health and wellbeing of children, providing children and their families and carers with information, advice and support for coping with feelings and worries, daily life and getting through a tough time.

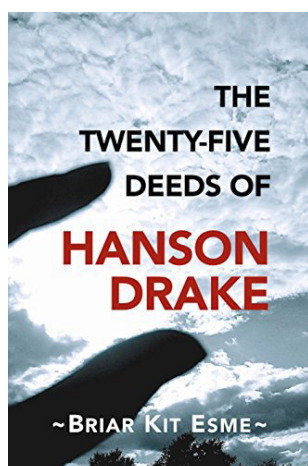

The booklist of 33 titles provides quality-assured information, advice and stories to support children's mental health and wellbeing and includes:

- General information and advice about maintaining good mental health and wellbeing
- Understanding and managing feelings
- Dealing with worries
- Navigating the world around you, including at school, online and in the news
- Dealing with tough times, including when someone dies, trauma, and when a parent or carer has mental health needs

Books on this list are available to borrow from libraries across LibrariesWest.

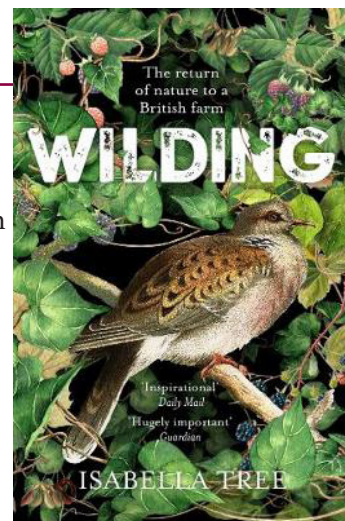

Twenty Five Deeds of Hanson Drake by Briar Kit Esme, 2013

Anyone who has ever visited, or especially, volunteered at Kingston Lacy may find something to enjoy in this book. It is an unusual story, essentially nice with a feel good factor, simply but well written and not over demanding. Just a book to sit back and enjoy.

Wilding by Isabella Tree

If you are intrigued by a real life observation of purple emperors chasing off a chaffinch or of a walk through thickets of creeping thistle exploding with thousands of painted ladies and then being eaten into oblivion by their caterpillars, or of large ginger pigs tucking into a wedding party buffet with a most unexpected and heart warming outcome then this is a book for you. It charts the development of the Knepp Estate's land from traditional agricultural management to husbandry by longhorn cattle, tamworth pigs and exmore ponies. This book tells a real life, contemporary story of how our country's wildlife can survive and thrive - given some brave decisions, intelligent funding and a chance. C.S.
